Reds Close Highway Again, But West Berlin Is Quiet

BERLIN (AP) — East Germany closed the main autobahn between West Berlin and East Germany again today for the sixth day in a row, West Berlin border officers reported, even though the election of the West German president in Berlin was over.

A West Berlin customs officer said one lane at the West Berlin end had been left open, apparently for vehicles on the U.S.
British and French garrisons, but it was not known if any had gone through.

The East Germans could be trying to give credence to their claim that periodic closing of the autobahn is necessary because of Warsaw Pact maneuvers in the area.

Meanwhile, West Berliners and others were asking why the Communists hadn't done more to interfere with the uneventful presidential election.

There were no sonic booms from East German MIGs over the West Berlin hall in which the Federal Assembly elected Gustav Heinemann, a 69-year-old Socialist. There was no barrage of propaganda leaflets, no buzzing of Western airliners en route to Berlin and not even the massive demonstrations threatened by West Berlin's militant New Left.

Instead, after weeks of Communist warnings that the election could not be held in Berlin without "grave measures" of reprisal, the East Germans closed the roads between the city and West Germany while 1,021 members of the West German Federal Assembly elected Heinemann to be president for the next five years.

First the Communists closed both ends of the most-traveled autobahn to the West for three hours, until U.S. and British military convoys appeared to make the trip.

Then for four hours in the afternoon they closed all roads in and out West Berlin, held up traffic to the city caught inside East Germany, and slowed up the processing of cars and trucks at the West German border.

It was the most serious infringement on Berlin access routes in years. But there was no report of any tampering with the air corridors used by the presidential electors to go to and from the city. That would have brought an immediate confrontation between the Russians and the Americans, British and French.

Hijacker Is Arrested By Cubans

HAVANA (AP) — Cuba announced for the first time today the arrest of an air hijacker but it gave no indication he would be returned to the United States.

Up to now, the government had remained silent as to the disposition of persons who force planes to Cuba.

Reporting on Wednesday's hijacking of a National Airlines jetliner from the United States to Cuba, the Communist party newspaper Granma also took the unprecedented step of identifying the man in custody here as the hijacker.

It said he is Anthony Garnet Bryant. It added he had been arrested in the United States for robbery and traffic in drugs.

Granma reported that Bryant robbed one of the passengers on the jetliner of $1,700 which Cuban officials returned to the owner.

"The author of these acts has been put under arrest in Cuba by competent authorities," Granma said.

The stewardess of the Boeing 727 said after the plane returned to Miami, Fla., Wednesday with 19 passengers and a crew of six that the hijacker told her: "I can't lie to you. My name is Jimmie Carver and I'm from California."

Schweickart Sets Short Space Walk; 'Feeling Better'

Bulletin
SPACE CENTER, Houston
(AP) — Astronaut Russell L.
Schweickart slipped outside his orbiting Apollo 9 mooncraft today to perform America's first walk in more than two years.

Making like a swimmer in the weightlessness sea of space, he eased feet first out the hatch of Apollo 9's spidery lunar module (LEM) at 12:03 p.m. EST for a 45-minute picture-taking session standing in "golden slipper" foot restraints outside the LEM's hatch.

Find 2 Bodies In Woodland; Possibly A 3rd

PROVINCETOWN, Mass.
(AP) — The dismembered bodies of two young women and the possible remains of a third have been unearthed in a woodland area where the corpse of an unidentified teen-age girl was found on Feb. 4.

Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis said a Provincetown carpenter, An-tone Costa, 25, was arrested in Boston and charged with murder soon after the bodies were dug up Wednesday.

Dinis identified the victims as Patricia Walsh, 23, a school teacher, and Mary Ann Wy-socki, 23, a Rhode Island college senior, both of Providence, R.I.
They were buried 300 yards from the spot where the other girl's body was found.

Friends since high school,
Miss Walsh and Miss Wysocki were reported missing six weeks ago. It was while seeking them that police earlier found the teen-age girl.

Raredon, a student at Ohio State University, denied that the organization is even attempting
to influence high school pupils,
and said it has no plans to do so.
But a fellow member, Tom Buttney of the University of Colorado, insisted that SDS is trying
to move into the high schools,
and reports from across the country tend to bear him out.
Cities as widespread as Los Angeles, Denver, Boston and Columbus, Ohio, report over-activity by the SDS on high school campuses. At the same time, authorities in Atlanta,

could make a shortened space walk.
"Let's let him make one daylight pass on the front porch," McDivitt told Mission Control.
"Roger, we agree," the ground concurred.

McDivitt reported Schweickart was "feeling a lot better and he looks a lot better. Maybe he can extend things just a little."

The Apollo 9 commander made the recommendation for the space walk after he and Schweickart had for the second time in two days transferred through a tunnel from the Apollo command ship to the lunar module (LEM).

The "front porch" he referred to was a platform outside the LEM hatch. On the platform are a pair of "golden slippers," foot restraints that look something like Dutch shoes.

Schweickart will stand in the shoes for one daylight pass, about 45 minutes. If possible he will take pictures and provide a television show for earth viewers.

Air Force Col. David R. Scott also planned to open the hatch of the attached command module and poke his head and shoulders out to retrieve a thermal patch attached to the side.

The patch is a small piece of quartz coated with magnesium fluoride to measure potential contaminants caused by hot gases.

Schweickart originally had planned to transfer during the space walk from the LEM to the command module and back to

Plan To Lower Ohio Voting Age Advances

House Reference Committee Plans To OK Measure

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The House Reference Committee was expected today to report out a Senate-passed resolution to lower the voting age from 21 to 19.

House Speaker Charles F.
Kurfess said the resolution probably will be sent to the State Government Committee for hearings.

If adopted by both houses, the constitutional amendment would be submitted to a vote of the people in November.

The resolution breezed through the Senate by a 30-3 vote a week ago, but was expected to run into trouble in the Reference Committee.

Although both political parties and the governor are supporting the resolution, some county committees do not want to see the vote given to 19-year-olds because they are afraid it might upset the political balance.

Kurfess earlier predicted that "there should be sufficient votes" on the House floor to pass it.

In legislative action Wednesday the Senate received a bill to establish an office of state planning within the governor's office.

The long-awaited administration bill was outlined by Gov.
James A. Rhodes in his State of the State speech Feb. 5.

Under the bill, the governor should appoint a state planning director and would be able to keep a tight rein on programming in state departments.

In the House, a bill was introduced to provide direct presi-

Gold Rush On Again In Europe

LONDON (AP) — A new gold rush appeared to be building up in European bullion markets today, sparked by renewed belief that the French franc will be de-valued.

At Zurich, Switzerland, the price of gold hit a record high of $43.40—$43.70 per ounce on the world's largest free bullion market. Dealers reported buying from all over and a heavy volume but said they were too swamped with orders to make a detailed analysis yet.

At the morning fixing in London, the price rose 25 cents over Wednesday's close to $43.25, then went as high as $43.60 during lively dealings.

Most of the demand in London was coming from France, with one dealer estimating it as high as 75 per cent of the market.
The French were reported smuggling money out of their country to convert it into gold.

Foreign exchange dealers believe devaluation of the franc is only a matter of time. The new fears for the French currency stem from the French trade unions' demands for higher wages, and speculators have moved into the bullion market to hedge.

Pentagon To Buy More F111 Jets Despite 13 Crashes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon is preparing to ask Congress for money to buy at least 60 more models of the F111 fighter-bomber which has just suffered its 13th crash in 26 months, sources report.

The move is interpreted by Air Force officers and other officials intimately associated with F111 production as the Nixon administration's vote of confidence in the controversial aircraft.

Barring last minute budgetary revisions, about $500 million for the F111 program will go into the proposed fiscal 1970 defense budget expected to be forwarded soon to Capitol Hill.

The new buy will bring planned production of the super-sonic F111 to around 400 planes.
General Dynamics is already signed to turn out 331. And the Air Force may seek later this year to go far beyond 400.

Like other major weapons systems, the F111 project in recent days has been subjected to an extensive review by the new

Pentagon team of Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird.
Air Force sources expect the F111 program to emerge largely intact from this dollar-cutting re-examination of defense programs inherited by the Republican administration from the outgoing Democrats.

Officials say the review has dealt with "cost-effective" questions about the plane rather than any technical problems which have been encountered.

The F111 accident rate and soaring cost problems have stirred criticism in Congress where Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., first secretary of the Air Force, is on record as calling for an investigation of the program and possibly its cancellation.

On Tuesday an F111A crashed near Nellis Air Force Base, Las Vegas, Nev., the 13th loss since January 1967. Cause was undetermined, but officers in Washington said the mishap would not affect the F111's future.

"If accidents made programs go under, we'd never have any aircraft," one officer commented.

Both the Air Force and General Dynamics contend that the F111 has experienced a lower accident rate per flying hour than any supersonic fighter-bomber ever produced by the United States.

The F4 Phantom, regarded as the next-best thing to the F111 and currently in use in Vietnam, had 13 crashes after a cumulative total of 21,000 hours flying time. The 13th F111 crash occurred at 25,000 flying hours.
The F105 Thunderchief had a worse record than the F4.

GOP Senator Seeks Delay In Nixon's ABM Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — A leading Republican critic of the Sentinel (ABM) missile project says he will ask President Nixon to delay a decision on deployment of the so-called "thin" defense system until Congress can trash out the controversial subject in full-scale debate.

"I am approaching this from the standpoint of one who is interested in supporting the President in his efforts to get negotiations under way with Russia which could make it unnecessary to build this costly system," Kentucky's John Sherman Cooper said Wednesday.
Cooper is a member of the Foreign Relations Committee and its disarmament subcommittee, one of several focal points for strong Senate opposition to deployment of the nuclear-armed, $5 billion ABM.

Cooper commented in an interview in advance of today's start of subcommittee hearings into the system. The subcommittee chairman, Democrat Albert Gore of Tennessee, is an other outspoken critic of the Sentinel.

Amid clamorous public and senatorial criticism, Nixon halted deployment of the Sentinel several weeks ago pending full review.

He told a nationally televised news conference Tuesday night he would announce a decision on whether or not to go ahead with it early next week.

If, as expected, Nixon gives the go ahead for a modified Sentinel system and does not bow to Cooper's request for a delay, a Senate showdown may come by April.

Although prospects for the ABM's future are uncertain in the House, opponents are believed to hold a slim majority in the Senate.

The National Security Council considered the issue at a two-hour meeting Wednesday, but Secretary of Defense Melvin R.
Laird said afterward no final decision was reached.

The Pentagon chief reportedly recommended to the NSC a modified antimissile approach designed to quiet some of the opposition in Congress and the country while providing protection against a possible Chinese nuclear attack in the mid-1970s and safeguarding this country's deterrent punch.

Saigon Shelled 1 Day After Nixon Warning

SAIGON (AP) — U.S., South Vietnamese and enemy casualties jumped to their highest level since last May during the first week of the Viet Cong's current spring offensive, the allied commands announced today.

The U.S. Command said 453 Americans were killed last week and 2,593 were wounded, with 1,051 of the latter hospitalized. The number of dead was nearly triple the previously weekly average for 1969 and was the highest American toll since the week of May 12-18, 1968, when 549 were killed and 2,282 were wounded during another big enemy offensive.

The Saigon government reported 521 of its men killed, while the allied commands said at least 6,752 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese died in the first seven days of the enemy's new drive on South Vietnamese towns and allied military installations.

The U.S. Command said the weekly casualty report raised the total number of Americans killed in combat in Vietnam to 32,376, including 9,425 since preliminary peace talks began in Paris last May 13. Of the latter number, 2,319 died after South Vietnam agreed on Dec. 7 to join the talks.

U.S. headquarters said at least 457,132 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese have been killed since Jan. 1, 1961, when the United States entered the war.

Methodist Fund Drive Is Pushed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) —
Bishop F. Gerald Ensley of the Ohio West Area of the United Methodist Church reported today that the church's special fund drive for more than $900-000 is nearly three-quarters subscribed.

The fund campaign was instituted to "help strike at the root causes of poverty and violence in society," Bishop Ensley said.

Half the fund will stay in the West Area for work among the less fortunate in cities and rural areas, he reported. The other half is to go to similar work across the nation under direction of the church's bishops

Radical SDS Failing To Make Gains In High Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Students for a Democratic Society is trying to recruit converts to its doctrine of social revolution among high school pupils, but the evidence indicates that the youngsters aren't digging the message.

A nationwide survey by The Associated Press showed the SDS, a leading force in many major disruptions of college campuses, has become active in only a handful of high schools and that, so far, its impact has been minimal.
One spokesman for SDS, Tom

Raredon, a student at Ohio State University, denied that the organization is even attempting
to influence high school pupils,
and said it has no plans to do so.

But a fellow member, Tom
Buttney of the University of Colorado, insisted that SDS is trying
to move into the high schools,
and reports from across the
country tend to bear him out.

Angeles, Denver, Boston and Columbus, Ohio, report over-
activity by the SDS on high school campuses. At the same time, authorities in Atlanta,

Philadelphia, Kansas City, Minneapolis, Des Moines, Chicago and Milwaukee say the militant leftist organization hasn't surfaced among the high school crowd.

In Los Angeles, Police Chief Tom Reddin said his department has discovered a link between SDS and the Peking-oriented Progressive Labor Party which, he says, has enlisted support among the students of Fremont High School.

Reddin had said in a report made public last December that SDS had established 10 chapters in Los Angeles high schools.

School officials denied it.

Dr. Ralph Richardson, a member of the Los Angeles Board of Education, said SDS activity on high school campuses has been "sporadic." The board, he said, is "concerned and properly so" about the SDS but does not take the position that it constitutes an immediate danger.

School officials in Denver said SDS had set up chapters in some high schools, but that the number of students involved was small.

SDS members from the University of Colorado and the University of Denver took part in recent attempts to demonstrate at two Denver high schools.

At one school, students fought with SDS representatives and tore up their leaflets. Police broke up the other demonstration.

Buttney, the SDS leader at the University of Colorado, said his organization erred in trying to impose itself on the high school students instead of working with them. "This never works," he said.

The SDS appears to be making some attempt to win high school pupils in the Boston area.
A spokesman for the city School Department, Ronald Johnson, said "a number of suspicious looking types have been attending recent meetings of the school committee and taking notes." They wore "the usual SDS costumes — hippie-type clothing," he said.

Johnson also claimed that recent disturbances in Boston high schools appeared to reflect outside influences. He did not elaborate.

Space Walk . . .

the LEM, moving hand-over-hand on railings.

The entire walk was canceled when Schweickart became ill Wednesday. Instead, the astronauts had planned only to depressurize the cabins and open their hatches to face the vacuum of space protected by their pressure suits.

Schweickart and Air Force Col. McDivitt moved through a connecting tunnel from the command ship to the LEM and reved up the systems of the spidery craft which they hope to qualify to land two astronauts on the moon in July.

The LEM performed flawlessly Wednesday, the first time the odd-looking vehicle had been operated in space by man. It receives its most critical test Friday when McDivitt and Schweickart separate it, fly more than 100 miles away and then seek out Scott and the command ship in a celestial game of hide and seek.

Schweickart showed no signs today of the nausea that struck him Wednesday. But because of the possibility of a recurrence, there was no plan to reinstate the cancelled space walk.

Schweickart had two vomiting attacks early Wednesday. He later skipped lunch and said he did not feel up to par.

The rookie spaceman had planned to leave the hatch of the lunar module and move hand-over-hand on railings to enter the hatch of the command module, joining Scott. After a brief rest, he was to have re-joined McDivitt in the still-attached LEM.

Schweickart's suit and backpack are identical to those astronauts will wear on the moon, and officials want to test them on Apollo 9 before committing men to a lunar landing.

Christopher C. Kraft Jr., director of flight operations, said the space walk was not essential to a moon landing.

The purpose of assigning it to Schweickart was to demonstrate that man can transfer from the LEM to the command ship in case of an emergency.

Kraft said it was more important to have the crew rested for a critical rendezvous and docking Friday.

McDivitt and Schweickart are to separate the LEM, fly 109 miles away and then seek out Scott in the command ship. They will thus maneuver like the two astronauts who will launch themselves from the moon to rejoin the mother ship in lunar orbit.

Doctors were puzzled over Schweickart's nausea. He is an experienced pilot. But they said he had a history of a nervous stomach and that he had taken motion sickness pills before and after the launching.

Man Jailed In Breaking, Entering Case

A Columbus man charged with the robbery of Certified Oil Station on Route 23 north was arraigned and sentenced in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court Wednesday afternoon.

The man, John Wiles, had been charged with breaking into the station in Jan. 26, 1969 and stealing $150 in cash plus $10 worth of items from a vending machine.

Wiles entered a plea of guilty to breaking and entering in the night season. The companion charges of grand larceny and destruction of property were nolleed at the time of arraignment by Judge William Ammer.

Fumes Cause $300 Fire

Fumes from a combustible liquid being used to clean the floor at Larry's Auto Sales exploded at noon Wednesday, causing an estimated $300 damage.

Circleville firemen reported most of the damage was caused by smoke to the contents of the building.

Firemen answered three calls between 6 and 7:30 p.m. yesterday.

They hosed fuel oil from the gutter at the corner of Court and Main Sts., doused an unattended fire in a trash barrel on Town St. and answered a false alarm at a West Main St. drive-in restaurant.

Plan To Lower

dential primaries in Ohio.

The sponsor, Jim Thorpe, R-90 Alliance, said it would take the selection of delegates to national party conventions away "from the hands of political bosses."

The bill would allow the secretary of state to put the name of any candidate he feels is a national candidate for the office on the Ohio ballot.

A candidate could put his name on the ballot by collecting 50 signatures from each congressional district.

Thorpe's bill would also require that convention delegates be elected by submitting their candidacy to the voters rather than by being selected by their political organization.

At present, both parties submit their list of convention delegates as a slate.

In other action, the Senate passed two bills. A bill to prohibit medical quackery passed by a 32-0 vote.

It would prohibit any person from selling or administering any drug, device or treatment which is fraudulently represented as a preventive, treatment or cure.

It provides a penalty of a maximum fine of $1,000 and one year imprisonment.

The Senate also passed 31-0 a bill to provide that an unsolicited gift sent through the mail as an offer for the sale of merchandise shall be an "unconditional gift."

The person receiving the gift would have no obligation to the sender.

4 More Ohioans Killed In Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Ohio soldiers, S. Sgt. Thomas V. Pilson of Bellefontaine and S. Sgt. George H. Ripple of Toledo, have been killed in recent action in Vietnam, the Defense Department reported Wednesday.

Army Pfc. Frederick R. Ratliff Jr. of Columbus was switched from the list of missing to killed in action, while Army Capt. Howard T. Fox of Cincinnati was listed as having died not as a result of hostile action.

The deeper the glass sphere goes, the stronger it becomes, engineers say.

Rescuers Inch Toward Man Imprisoned In Lead Mine

LARK, Utah (AP) — Rescue workers drilled through some 35 feet of rock today and delivered water to a miner trapped nearly five days inside a zinc-lead mine in Northern Utah.

Bill Hawes, one of the rescue workers, said they had given William "Buck" Jones several two-ounce shots of water and hoped to get food to him soon, including bullion, eggnog, coffee and cereal.

"Man that tastes good," Jones told the workers after receiving his second drink of water.

Hawes said a light and water in tubes were pushed through the small opening made with a diamond bit.

Hawes said Jones was helping rescue workers by describing his enclosure now that he had some light.

John Bordon, another rescue worker, said Jones was using a wooden pick handle and a part of a drill he had with him to prop up the ceiling and walls of his enclosure to prevent further cave-ins.

Jones became trapped at 11 a.m. Saturday 4 miles inside the mine while working with another miner. There was a cave-in and the coworker jumped free. Jones cowered into a small adjoining tunnel and told his companion he was going to shore up the walls. A second cave-in sealed Jones inside.

Hone of reaching Jones alive had dwindled steadily.

Early Wednesday morning rescuers were amazed to hear him call out: "When are you going to get me out of here?"

Saigon Shelled

ment also reported 208 civilians killed and 677 wounded during the first seven days of the enemy offensive last week. The toll continued to rise today as Saigon was hit by the most devastating Heavy rockets smashed into a densely populated slum, killing at least 25 civilians and wounding more than 70. Most of the dead were children.

The rocket barrage crashed in less than 24 hours after President Nixon warned that the United States would not tolerate the continuation of such attacks. However, the shelling was not believed to be a reply to that warning because the enemy's communications facilities are not thought to be efficient enough to arrange such a quick reaction.

Auto Hits Freight Car, Driver Hurt

Gerald D. Gysinger, 31, Route 3, sustained a cut chin and lip when he rammed into a freight car on the Pennsylvania Railroad at the Clinton St. crossing 12:30 a.m. today.

According to a signalman at the railroad, Gysinger's car came from the lot at Bowling Stock Yards.

He apparently failed to see the signal light held by the railroad employee, who jumped from the path of the car at the last minute, and rammed into the freight car.

The front end of the car he was driving was heavily damaged. It is owned by Clifton Motor Co.

He said he would have a statement on his proposal next week.

The senator said he is "kicking around a proposal to have all youths involved in national service. This could be the military, the Peace Corps, VISTA and other similar things."

He also said it could include girls.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel has authorized Union Oil Co., to reopen partially its troublesome Well A-21, the one which sprung a leak in January and spread an 800-square-mile oil slick in the Santa Barbara Channel off California.

Hickel authorized the company to drill not more than 850 feet below the ocean floor to relieve pressure on the upper sands.

The company was directed Feb. 22 to tap the upper sands and relieve pressure which had been forcing oil and gas to continue seeping slowly into the water. One attempt to do this through another well drilled from the same platform touched off renewed leakage and had to be stopped.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Rules Committee has taken a big stride toward the installation of a public address system in the Senate chamber.

Under plans approved by the committee, subject of course, to the Senate's okay—a small microphone and loudspeaker will be attached to each senator's desk. Loudspeakers will be placed in the public and press galleries.

The House has had a public address system for years, but past efforts to put one in the Senate have failed. Opponents argue that it would be contrary to tradition, would impair the dignity of the debates and isn't necessary because the Senate is so much smaller than the House.

Under the plan contemplated by the Rules Committee, a small microphone will be hooked to the side of each senator's desk. It will have a long cord so the senator can walk around with the mike in his hand, looped around his neck or clipped to his shirt.

The estimated cost is $125,000.

Something To Think About . . . The Price Of Progress

By JEAN CRIST

Going to the store for the week's supply of groceries, was for Grandma, in her time, a rather pleasant experience which she looked forward to. It meant she would get away from home for a while and have a chance to see and talk with friends and in the process gather together the staples and few luxury items which compromised her shopping for the week. It was, on the whole, an enjoyable experience and presented few problems.

It is becoming a terribly worn cliché, but "my, how times have changed!" Although it isn't necessary, it is helpful if you are a college graduate in order to be properly prepared for the challenge of shopping in the modern grocery store. It is, however, necessary to have a plentiful supply of nice, green money.

The first hurdle to overcome when going to the grocery is to convince your spouse that you really do need that much of the nice, green stuff and that you make every attempt to buy wisely. Next comes the grocery list. Some efficient persons keep a constant record of their needs and cut the coupons out of the paper so that when the time to shop comes, they are all ready. Then there are others, less prepared, who dart from refrigerator to cupboard noting what is missing and quickly check the paper for bargains just before their departure. Still others put their money in their purse, jump in the car and play it by ear after they get there.

Upon arriving at your store of choice, you get your shiny basket and before going six feet from the front door you are greeted by a huge display with one of the specials for the day. Imagine, six large cans of green beans for only $1.00! Naturally, you begin to load green beans in your basket, all the time feeling rather smug at making such a good buy so quickly. But as you start to walk away, it suddenly dawns on you that no one in your family likes green beans! You casually glance around to see if anyone is watching and then very quickly put your six cans of green beans back on the display and hurry away.

Looking at your list, you see "cereal." You have to decide which of the approximately 30 brands you want and then whether you want sugar-coated or plain, with vitamins or without. After reaching this point you are then faced with the choice of the 6 1/2 ounce size for 23 cents, the 11 5/8 size for 37 cents or the 15 3/16 ounce size for 52 cents. Having left your computer at home, you are at a loss to decide which is the better buy. So you just grab a box and hope for the best.

Next on the list is "corn." That four letter word involves deciding if you want canned corn which comes creamed, whole kernel, white, yellow or with pimientos in three different size cans, fresh corn on the cob, or frozen corn which comes whole kernel, creamed, in a plastic bag with butter sauce, all of which can be purchased in the 2 for 41 cent package or the giant economy size for 95 cents.

As you go down your list, going through all these mental gymnastics with each item, the soft music lulls your weary mind and the strains of a familiar tune remind you of a high school dance with an old boyfriend. There you stand staring at the pickles carried away with nostalgia while your cart blocks the aisle until a gentleman, with his irritation showing says, "Hey lady, can I get through?" Feeling ridiculous you mumble, "Sorry, sir," grab a jar of pickles and move on.

Now it's time to run the gauntlet. That, for anyone trying to lose weight, is that section of the grocery which contains the cake mixes, cookies, candy and all types of frozen goodies, none of which you have any business buying. It takes a very determined person not to succumb to the attractive packaging of these items.

Last, but not least, is the frozen food section. This particular section is heavily laden with psychological overtones. Any woman over 30 years of age has had drummed in her head that if you don't cook from "scratch" you can't possibly be a good cook, that frozen foods are expensive and for lazy cooks and the really good cook steers clear of buying them. Of course, the fact that these things "ain't necessarily so" anyone should relieve them of this burden of guilt but I'll bet if you ask these women to be honest with you, they will have to admit they can't quite get rid of the guilty twinge they get when buying those "convenience" frozen foods.

You pay for your purchases and head for home. After carrying four big sacks in the house, including a very heavy one, as you pick up the last one you feel a wet, sticky substance on your hand.

Without looking, you know it's the eggs again. You never could figure out why some clerks put four half gallon cartons or twenty cans in one sack or why they put the eggs in such vulnerable positions.

You sit down, weary from all the decision making, kick off your shoes and contemplate putting away the groceries. The yellow of the egg is slowly creeping across the kitchen table, the frozen food is defrosting and you think to yourself, "Gee, I'm lucky, in this age of convenience, I never had it so good?"

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren His Affair 'Too Hot Not To Cool Down'

DEAR ABBY: I am almost 40 and have four nearly grown children. My husband has fallen in love with his secretary and has asked for a divorce so he can marry her. He says he will continue to support me and the children as before, and he is well able to.

He has always been a devoted husband and father, and I love him very much, but I've known from the day we were married that his love for me was not as strong as mine for him.

Should I give him a divorce? I know he is miserable and torn between his "love" for her and his loyalty to me and the children.

This has been going on for six months, and it is tearing me apart. I've even threatened suicide.

If I refuse to give him a divorce, do you think he will eventually give up the other woman? Or will he end up hating me?

TORTURED

DEAR TORTURED: Don't make any permanent decisions now. Your husband's "love affair" sounds too hot not to cool down. But if it IS the enduring kind of "love"—it will keep for another six months, after which you can view the situation more calmly and less emotionally. Probably the worst reason in the world to give a man a divorce is because he says he wants one.

DEAR ABBY: I have a 73-year-old aunt who has lived with us for the past 10 years. My husband and children adore her.

My problem is that lately she is forgetful and misplaces things, and then she accuses people of "stealing."

I have seen her GIVE someone something, and the next day she'll turn the house upside down looking for it. When I remind her that she gave it away, she'll tell me I'm "crazy."

Last week she tore one of her galoshes, so she threw them in the trash. Yesterday she told me one of her friends of 40 years' standing called on her and STOLE her galoshes. When I reminded her that she threw them away, she said, "Oh, you're crazy!"

Abby, how should this be handled?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Auntie is becoming increasingly forgetful and a bit crotchety in her old age. Be patient. And don't contradict her. And keep your sense of humor, or YOU will go "crazy," too.

DEAR ABBY: This is in re to "Ed," whose wife awakened him in the middle of the night, kissing him and calling him "Walter"—her doctor's name.

I have been married for over 26 years to an orthopedic surgeon, and you'd be flabbergasted how many women think they "love" their doctors. But you see, it isn't "love"—it's a combination of confidence, trust, gratitude and hero-worship.

I've had women of all ages rave about my husband, and some have come right out and said, "I just LOVE him!" I've also been told that many young nurses have had a crush on my husband. But it's usually no more serious than a teenager's crush on a teacher.

How do I feel about that? I'm a nurse, and my father, who was very handsome, was a physician. My mother trusted my father, and I trust my husband. And when women gush about how great Leslie is, I smile and say, "Thank you." Then I think to myself, "My, she has good taste!" Sincerely, GREENVILLE, S.C.

DEAR ABBY: A 13-year-old child wrote that her grandfather is 82 years old and has had 23 children—the youngest being 10!

I hope he is able to feed them all. When will these aged men learn to seek other things to do than to father a child at age 60, 70 and 80? Don't they realize that a child needs a father—not a grandfather, to bring him up? It's nauseating. They try to keep up with the teen-agers. Then they drop dead. It's just not fair to our future generation. There's no doubt about it, these men are having dementias and need a physician's help. Sign me...

Claim Nixon Is Committed To Appalachia

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is committed to continuing the Appalachian Regional Commission, Pennsylvania Gov. Raymond P. Shafer told the Senate Wednesday.

Shafer said he talked with Nixon about the future of the commission and "he assured me that he was committed to this program and that it was his intention to keep the program answerable to the Office of the President."

Many features of the commission, established by Congress in 1965 to upgrade the economy of the Appalachian regions of 13 states, expire this year.

Shafer told the Economic Development subcommittee that the governors of the 13 states like the program and want it to continue.

"It enjoys a direct line of communication with the President on matters affecting the welfare of 17 million Americans," said Shafer.

Shafer, in prepared remarks, told the subcommittee he and the other governors are particularly anxious to extend the highway building part of the program through 1973.

He submitted a proposed amendment to increase the total authorization for the highway program from $1.015 billion to $1.140 billion.

He asked that the mining area restoration portion of the commission be extended through 1971, along with the section funding development of low-cost housing.

Shafer asked that the vocational education program—a part of the commission that Shafer stressed was vital—be continued through 1971.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP)—A compilation by Lloyds Register of shipping that shows Japan floated 50 per cent of all new ship tonnage in 1968 points up the nearly incredible postwar comeback of that country.

It was only a century ago that Japan emerged from isolation, only 25 years since its economy was wrecked by war, 15 years since it was an occupied nation. Last year it launched 8,572,970 tons of shipping, including 19 of 23 ships whose weight exceeded 100,000 tons. Its tonnage production was, in fact, 20 times that of the United States.

It has now become the second largest manufacturer of television receivers, the world's foremost producer of radios, the third largest maker of steel products and the second largest automaker.

While some of the world's oldest industrialized nations are fighting to maintain their export markets, Japan continues to enlarge its share of trade. Last year it had a trade surplus of $2.5 billion.

By contrast, the United States surplus of goods exported compared with imports fell sharply to $725 million from more than $4 billion a year earlier.

The island nation's Gross National Product is the swiftest growing of any industrialized nation. With a GNP now well over $100 billion, Japan's economy is the second largest of the non-Communist nations and is growing at 11 or 12 per cent a year.

Japan has, in fact, achieved through ingenuity and trade what it failed to win 25 years earlier by military conquest. It now has its raw materials and markets.

Various reasons are given for the transformation. Japan's people seemingly have the intelligence, spirit and the competitive desire to excel. But several other reasons also stand out.

Japan's renunciation of violence, for example, means that national defense costs less than in other nations. It has modernized its economic system. And it has benefited greatly from American spending.

There is irony in this American-Japanese trade relationship, for while the United States has, in the eyes of some critics, weakened its economy through military expenditures, these same expenditures have strengthened Japan.

The Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. estimated recently that Japanese exports to the U.S. market, and Japanese exports to various Asian countries, in part a by-product of U.S. military presence, account for up to 45 per cent of all its exports.

Nobody can say with certainty what chapters remain to be written in this amazing story of industrial expansion, but almost all forecasts for 1969 indicate more of the same.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A PHLEGMATIC man, not given to flights of fancy, startled his fellow-workers by informing them that on four successive mornings he had encountered an honest-to-corner of Fifty-Second and Madison Avenue. "Sure, sure," scoffed the legal eagle of the establishment, "but how come nobody else sees this ghost of yours?"

The phlegmatic one answered simply, "He lends them money."

Near the end of an oral examination, an army lieutenant, seeking promotion to captain, was asked, "If, while traveling on orders, you observed a young lady to whom you were attracted by the general excellence of a coordinated rear action, what would you do?" The unblinking candidate, according to informant H. R. Flanagan, won unanimous approval of the review board by answering the questioning colonel, "I would first reexamine the forward deployment, sir, to be sure that it matched the rear emplacement that you described."

QUICKIES:

Box to secretary: "Be sure to mark that memo 'Strictly Confidential.' I want to be sure everybody in the office reads it." Traffic cop to lady violator: "How long have you been driving — if you'll forgive my complete misuse of the word?"

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Our six-year-old daughter, the eldest of three, has had some kind of brain damage, probably a birth defect. Although she is slow in learning she is well coordinated and gets along remarkably well with other children. She is warm, adorable and loving. I am aware that some parents of her playmates do not encourage having our child in their group, almost as if so-called mental retardation is contagious. Perhaps you can enlighten people and free them of this misconception.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. O., Ohio
The age of enlightenment about mental retardation has not yet reached everyone, but the horizons are widening daily. It is now acknowledged that mental retardation is not stigma or shame. The fortunate parents of completely normal, healthy children without the handicap of "slowness" are now playing an active role with their kindness and understanding in helping restore "limited children" to their rightful world of happiness.

Mental retardation at birth is not a disease transmitted by bacteria. It now can be remedied in a great measure if all forces work together to give these children their greatest chances for emotional growth. No, the condition is not contagious and cannot affect the growth of playmates.

Your daughter's warmth can help her ingratiate herself and become part of a group which can then benefit from her rather than pay a penalty by accepting her. An open discussion with the parents of your daughter's friends may give them a better insight into how their own children can be taught the dividends of kindness.

How high should the cholesterol be in the blood before it is considered dangerous?

Mr. V. H., Missouri
Dear Mr. H.: Numbers themselves can only be confusing and may induce fear where it should not exist. A great many other factors besides the amount of cholesterol in the bloodstream determine health and disease. Some people with a very great amount may be in better general health than those with a small quantity, depending on the condition of the other organs of the body.

The normal amount of cholesterol ranges between 150 and 250 milligrams in 100 c.c. magpie.

of blood. Since normal variations of this amount do occur, patients must not base their health on the number alone. It is for this reason that physicians so thoroughly discuss the meaning of cholesterol, blood pressure and sugar "numbers" in relationship to general health.

There are definite diets that seem to reduce the amount of cholesterol in the blood. This is now considered most important in the prevention of narrowing of the arteries to the heart, the lungs and the brain. An additional hopeful thought is that a drug will soon be available to prevent the formation of cholesterol even with uncontrolled diets.

What is a horseshoe kidney? Is it dangerous and can it affect a normal life?

Mrs. B. H., Massachusetts
Dear Mrs. H.: This unusual condition occurs in about one in every five hundred people. In the absence of any infection people who have this unusually shaped kidney are as healthy and live as long as those with two kidneys.

L. American Bombs Ticking

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Maybe the Communists aren't going to need the "one, two or more Vietnams in Latin America" which the late Che Guevara threatened to instigate. Maybe they are going to get something more sneaky (a Nasser-like government in Peru, a Popular Front in Chile) which will be both anti-capitalist and anti-North American and ready to make common cause with any revolution (Maoist, Castroite, or just plain Muscovite) all over the world.

President Nixon, as of the moment of writing, hasn't been able to put his mind to the subject of Latin America. He, the cat, has been away in Europe, trying to shore up NATO and beguile de Gaulle, but one cannot say that the animals that have been playing in Latin America, particularly up and down the West Coast, are mice. They could even prove to be tigers. The Peruvian military men with the Nasser complex, General Juan Velasco Alvarado and his junta, who seized the Standard Oil properties at La Brea y Parinas after sending the constitutionally elected President Fernando Belaunde Terry into exile, have confronted the Nixon State Department with a "damned if you do and damned if you don't" situation.

The Hickenlooper Amendment, passed after Castro's theft of two billions of U.S. property in Cuba, specifies that all U.S. aid to an expropriating foreign country must cease after six months unless "meaningful" negotiations about compensation are under way. This, unless a miracle intervenes, means that, come spring, Washington funds must stop flowing into Peru via the Inter-American Development Bank. It also means that the Peruvian sugar quota, which now "earns" a subsidy from the U.S. of some forty or fifty million dollars above the world market, will lapse.

If we stop taking Peruvian sugar, the Velasco junta will yell that we are trying to black-jack a poor country into submission. But if, out of fear, we find some way of negating the plain words of the Hickenlooper Amendment, the Nixon Administration will automatically lose face not only throughout Latin America but all over the "Third World" in Africa and Asia. We can't win unless we can have "meaningful" discussions on compensation going with Peru before April. It is not likely that we shall be ready, for, as of the moment of writing, President Nixon hasn't even found an Assistant Secretary of State for Inter-American Affairs. A good man, former Ambassador to Mexico Robert Hill, stands waiting in the wings, but apparently Mr. Nixon has let the liberals' attempt to brand Hill a "reactionary" (a completely false charge) scare him off from giving the important Latin American job to his old friend. The liberals control appointments by "typing" people they don't like.

Meanwhile, a second time bomb goes on ticking in Chile. According to Paul Bethel, the extremely knowledgeable head of the Citizens Committee for a Free Cuba, Chile has more arable land per capita than the U.S. No need for anybody there to starve. But the left-leaning government of President Eduardo Frei has made a mess of the promised "agrarian reforms." Big land owners have been expropriated, and acreage has ostensibly gone to some 12,000 peasant families. But the families don't really have title to the soil they work. They receive "loans" of seed and fertilizer, though when it comes to borrowing on property or making their own market deals they discover they are merely pawns of the Institute of Agricultural Development. So they haven't really worked at farming, and Chile has had to import $200 million worth of food a year.

Paul Bethel's monitoring of Latin American TV programs caught Jacques Chonchol, the Vice President of the Chilean Institute of Agricultural Development, who happens also to be the man who planned Castro's agrarian reforms for Cuba, saying a revealing thing the other day. The Chilean peasants, so Chonchol said in a broadcast that had government sanction, cannot be permitted to own land outright because they "might become bourgeois peasants and support the reactionary sector of Chilean society."

What makes Chonchol's words ominous is that he is a powerful advocate of a popular front between the Christian Democrats and the Communists. So is Radomiro Tomle, former Chilean Ambassador to the U.S. So is Rafael Gumucio, a prominent Christian Democratic presidential nomination. If any one of them becomes President with accepted Communist support, the Communists will have crucial cabinet positions. They have always known what to do when they get a foot in the door.

According To Boyle

By JOE WING (For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP) — A while back I wrote a piece about the death of Carl Bender.

He was the boyhood friend of mine who enlisted in the Navy and then dropped out of my sight until a Navy clerk in Washington sent me a scrawled note that Carl was reported missing in action in World War II and presumed dead. No details at all.

Now comes a letter from Carl's brother Lynn, of Lincoln, Neb., protesting "I'm no writer" but filling me in on what actually happened. I thought you would like to know too.

"Carl was navigation officer aboard the destroyer USS Jarvis. It engaged the enemy in the Coral Sea battle in April 1942.

"The Jarvis was quite badly shot up and extensively burned topside. All life rafts and boats were destroyed. Also the radio was knocked out.

"The skipper was incapacitated in some manner and was below. Carl, being senior officer on duty, ordered the ship beached and all wounded personnel transferred to a hospital ship.

"Then the skipper came back topside and ordered the ship to a repair port in Australia. Late that evening another American ship sighted the Jarvis, and tried to contact them by radio, but because the Jarvis' radio was out was unable to do so.

"This ship went on into port or at least reported to higher authority and was ordered to return and assist the crippled ship, but after searching the area was unable to find the ship, personnel, debris, or even an oil slick. Just nothing at all. "We were unable to get any other definite information until quite some time after the war ended.

"Carl's wife tried on several occasions but all she got was a statement that when the information was made public she would be very, very proud of those boys.

"After the war the Navy Department told us that from one of the captured Japanese ships they got a ship's log which listed two almost simultaneous direct hits by torpedoes on a light cruiser class vessel in the immediate vicinity of where the Jarvis was sighted by the other American vessel.

I think, myself, that Lynn writes pretty well.

Student Council To Reapportion

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—Bowling Green State University's Student Council was told Wednesday to reapportion itself before passing any more legislation.

In a small scale version of federal redistricting decisions, the Student Court ruled that the Student Council was not representative of the student body.

The court acted on charges brought by William Becker, a junior, who said the Student Council was too large and was not functioning properly.

The school's student constitution gives the court power of review over the council.

Letter To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE — We welcome letters to the editor. In order to be considered for publication, they must bear the correct name and address of the writer. Anonymous letters and those signed with the request that signatures be withheld will not be accepted for publication. Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of The Herald.

Dear Editor: Fact or fiction? I, as a property owner, address this open letter to the Pickaway County Commissioners and Washington Township Trustees. I would like to know the true side of the story concerning the location of the county dump. I have heard the location selected by our elective representatives is no other than the land directly behind the county home, on Route 22, in Washington Twp. What has happened to our zoning laws? This area is zoned residential-agricultural with a small strip along Route 22 zoned commercial. Since when is the raising of rats, the collection of garbage and rubbish, the pollution of our wells classified as agricultural or residential? As county fathers, you sure don't know what you're doing if you allow a dump to be located in the area mentioned above.

If you don't abide by the zoning laws set forth for this area, I'm sure I, and many others, will remember each one of you next election.

Marlo Thomas

AP Television-Movie Writer

By BOB THOMAS

NEW YORK (AP) — A beautiful young brunette strides along a Manhattan street, evoking a wolf whistle from an admiring male. The girl continues on her way, glowing inwardly, "That was for ME."

The girl was "That Girl" — Marlo Thomas, star of the ABC television series. The reason for her satisfaction was not the usual one of appreciating male attention.

"The wolf whistle was for me — Marlo Thomas," she remarked, "not for Ann Marie — 'That Girl.' With my bangs off my forehead and my hair pulled back, nobody recognizes me from the television series. Sometimes if I'm in a store and the salesgirl listens to my voice, she'll say, 'Aren't you 'That Girl'?"

"Otherwise I'm free to go anywhere in New York and be myself. It's wonderful."

The search for identity has engaged Marlo Thomas for most of her recent years. As the eldest daughter of comedian Danny Thomas, she began her career in the shade of her famous sire. She learned the acting trade in road companies of "Under the Yum Yum Tree" and the London production of "Barefoot in the Park." Then she scored as "That Girl," earning an Emmy in the process.

Now she is seeking to escape permanent identification as the helter-skelter heroine of "That Girl."

Between the third and fourth seasons of the series, Marlo is making a movie, her first. The title is "Jenny," and her costar is Alan Alda, who scored impressively in "Paper Lion."

The plot is not the kind you would ordinarily find on television. Marlo plays a single girl who is six months pregnant and abandoned by her onetime lover. Alda is a young man who seeks to avoid the draft. A marriage of convenience ensues, and — inevitably in the movies — they fall in love.

"I've had other film offers before, and I really regret missing only one — 'Barefoot in the Park.'" Marlo said, "I'm sorry that I couldn't do it because of the series. But many of the others have since been made with other actresses, and I'm not at all sorry to have missed them."

Child Conservation League Holds Guest Day Luncheon

The Child Conservation League held its Annual Guest Day Luncheon Tuesday at the Pickaway Arms. Mrs. Walter Yamarick presided at the punch bowl. The tables were decorated with yellow carnations, daisies and greenery.

Mrs. Kenneth Hannan welcomed the guests and introduced the hostess committee: Mrs. Yamarick, Mrs. Richard Moore, Mrs. Clayton Vaughan, Mrs. Ronald Berlin and Mrs. John Dunlap III. Mrs. Robert McKelvey reported the puppet show was a successful venture for the club. Mrs. Frank Moore announced a change in the staffing of the Pre-Natal Clinic.

Mrs. O. Charles Hosterman, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Mary Goodman, a certified graphonomist. Mrs. Goodman said that handwriting tells how you feel inside. It is brain-writing because you cannot change what your brain tells you to put down. She described the meaning of various slants in writing and of different shaped letters. She continued with the idea that since we can control thoughts, we should think happy and not punish ourselves with unpleasant ideas. After she analyzed samples of several members' handwriting, Mrs. Goodman concluded the program with her favorite poem: "Two men looked out through prison bars. One saw mud; the other stars."

Sewage Plants Mushrooming Report Shows

CINCINNATI (AP) — Sewage treatment facilities now have been provided for 94.5 per cent of the sewer population in the Ohio River Valley compared to less than 1 per cent in 1948.

That was the word Wednesday from the Ohio River Valley Water Sanitation Commission (ORSANCO), which released its 20th annual report to governors of eight states joined in the compact.

ORSANCO said that 39 new sewage treatment plants, serving 98,000 persons, were put into operation during the past year in the entire valley which has 11.5 million people.

Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia comprise Cincinnati-based ORSANCO, designed to control and prevent stream pollution in the Ohio River Valley district.

Say Rhodes Is Building False Surplus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Democratic legislator implied Wednesday that the Rhodes administration is trying to build up a big year-end surplus by not permitting state departments to spend money they were given two years ago.

Rep. James J. Flannery, D-48 Cleveland, said he has asked the House Finance Committee to investigate.

Flannery said many departments have not been able to hire personnel authorized. He said the funds not spent may amount to $40 million or $50 million.

He charged that the administration did not include these funds in the budget.

"This surplus, when added to the previously disclosed surplus of $49 million, could bring the state's year end surplus to as much as $100 million," said Flannery, who is a certified public accountant by profession. He said a full disclosure is necessary so additional appropriations can be made for areas of state government where the money is needed.

Outer Skin Of Module Tissue-Thin

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The outside skin of the lunar module—America's vehicle for landing men on the moon—is so flimsy a man could push a foot through it, but it's perfect for the job it has to do.

Its outer skin is made of many layers of an aluminum cellophane-like material formed into a blanket and taped to the spacecraft.

The skin is not strong enough to stand the pressures of flying in an atmosphere, but it performs well in outer space.

Chunks of the material peeled off the lunar module Wednesday when the Apollo 9 crew fired its engine but Air Force Col. David A. Scott said the pieces appeared to be only a few inches in size.

Space officials said this small loss would not affect the thermal stability of the spacecraft.

The thermal blanket was designed to keep the temperatures inside the lunar module constant. It protects the astronauts from the wide ranges of space temperatures, which can dip to minus 250 degrees in the shade and hit 250 degrees in the sun.

May Buy Company

TROY, Ohio (AP) — The Hobart Manufacturing Co. announced Wednesday that an agreement in principle has been reached for purchase of Coch Refrigerator Inc. of Kansas City, Kan. Value of the transaction was not disclosed.

Handcrafted Creations Rate Careful Handling

By ELEANOR ROSS

The women of Madeira, that Portuguese island so famous for its embroidered linens — as well as its wine — never consider a piece of handiwork finished until it has been carefully laundered. Skillful sudsing and ironing help to achieve final elegance.

Same Thing

So it is with your own handiwork. Threads, yarns, and fabrics get dirty in handling, no matter how careful you may be. The first laundering should come right after that sweater or scarf is knitted, that chair seat embroidered, the doilies or runners crocheted. This washing evens out irregularities in the stitches or tension — minor defects which happen despite the most skilled crafts-women.

Articles knitted or crocheted from cotton and from nylon, Orlon, Dacron, or other synthetic fibered yarns can all be washed and dried by machine. Otherwise, the bathtub is a good place to handwash large pieces, such as knitted or crocheted afghans and bedspreads. An open or "stretchy" pattern will keep its shape better if first basted to a sheet. Pretreat any stains by massaging or brushing with thick suds.

Now, Hear This

Then into the tub to do a real job — yes, I mean you and the bedspread or afghan. The idea is to tamp warm suds through the piece with your base feet — peasant fashion. It works! This unusual method has been suggested by an elderly Scottish lady who saw it used, when she was a little girl, to wash blankets without "irritating" the fine wool. The tamping creates suction which forces suds through the fibers more easily than does back-bending scrubbing. Run enough clear rinse water into the tub to flush away the dirty suds. Tamp out excess moisture.

Then the bedspread or afghan goes into an automatic dryer or it is put to dry over parallel lines. Reverse its position while drying and finger-shape the corners and edges tautly to restore the pattern and original contour.

No pressing or steaming is really required. But if you want to iron or steam your handiwork, spread a clean sheet on the floor around the board to keep the "overflow" clean. Cover the piece with a clean Turkish towel, and press lightly on the wrong side. Use a coarse, straight comb to straighten fringe, and trim the ends of any fuzzy strands with sharp scissors.

Preliminary Steps

Before sudsing any crocheted items, mend broken threads and remove stains. Put small pieces into a plastic container half full of sudsy water. Cover and shake this briskly to simulate washer action; the agitation will loosen the dirt. This washing method, followed by rinsing the same way, protects fragile pieces from friction and snagging. Or else enclose the pieces in a mesh bag before washing.

To eliminate ironing, spread doilies and lace handkerchiefs over the enamel surface of a washer or dryer. If you press them, iron round cloths or doilies from the center outward for flat smoothness without ripples. Never let the point of the iron dig into the delicate threads of crocheted or latted inserts. Use only the broad sole of the iron to press the "fancy work" with a protective press cloth or tissue paper under the iron.

Be A Copycat

Keep those beautiful embroidered linens beautiful. Copy the women of Madeira. Their method is to launder linens in thick suds. After rinsing and drying they dampen linen again, place it right side up over a padded board, cover it with a damp cloth and iron a second time.

This two-step ironing prevents puckering around the embroidery, and also "raises" monograms and embroidery for a 3-D effect that adds professional dimension to your work.

Blast Rips Hebrew Center In Jerusalem

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS JERUSALEM (AP)—An explosive charge blew up in the cafeteria of the Hebrew University in Jerusalem today, wounding several persons.

Later officials reported a hand grenade was thrown into an Israeli bank in the occupied Arab city of Ramallah, just north of Jerusalem. One customer was injured.

The two explosions came less than two weeks after Arab terrorists set off a bomb in a Jerusalem supermarket, killing two persons and wounding nine others. Security forces reported Tuesday they had broken up a large Arab terrorist network in the occupied West Bank area, including those responsible for the supermarket bombing.

Officials at the university, which has 12,000 students including 1,000 from the United States, said the explosion occurred shortly before noon as 250 students were crowding into the cafeteria.

The Israeli army reported more sporadic firing today on the banks of the Suez Canal. It said more than half a dozen Israelis have been wounded in the cross-canal shooting that has been going on for the past few weeks. Egypt said two of its soldiers were wounded in small arms exchanges Wednesday.

The army also announced that an Israeli farmer was fatally wounded when his tractor ran over a mine 12 miles southeast of the Gaza Strip.

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, suggested Israel scrap Egyptian and Jordanian laws in the Arab territories it occupies and institute its own legal and economic systems.

In a speech to a doctors' convention in Tel Aviv Wednesday night, Dayan also proposed that Jews settle in cities on the Arab west bank of the Jordan River. One of those cities, he said, should be Nablus, a center of Arab resistance, because "it would be absurd for Israel ever to leave that place."

Dayan said he was not suggesting that Israel annex the Gaza Strip and the West Bank permanently. He said it should tighten its grip on the territories because of the dim prospect for a negotiated settlement between Israel and the Arabs.

He said Israelis must settle along the West Bank to protect Israel from terrorists, but the settlements should not be undertaken at the expense of the Arabs.

The speech, which appeared to counter official policy regarding the territories taken in the six-day Arab-Israeli war of 1967, was expected to spark a new controversy in Israel. Dayan is expected to seek the prime ministry in the general elections next fall, but he told the doctors he would be willing to serve in a cabinet headed by former Foreign Minister Golda Meir "if she is appointed by the Labor Party central committee." The party is expected to name Mrs. Meir interim prime minister this week, succeeding the late Levi Eshkol.

WHAT IS SALVAGE? . . .

There is not a unique answer to this question. The term salvage has many definitions. It is the property "saved from destruction" in a calamity such as an overturned railroad car, a truck accident or a fire. It is, also, surplus merchandise other large grocery chains or warehouses must dispose of. This surplus merchandise is in perfect condition.

Palm's Sales, Inc., carries a great deal of these extra items. This surplus is trucked from all parts of Ohio and surrounding states to our warehouses. We buy quality merchandise from Stokely, Van Camp, IGA Food Stores, Super Valu Food Stores, Del Monte and many other well known outlets.

We then sell the goods at a discount below warehouse prices. Come visit us at our new location at 475 E. Main St., Circleville, Ohio and see what bargains you can find!!!

Brown Says School Boards Can Set Duty

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Atty. Gen. Paul W. Brown said Wednesday that local school boards may determine by employment contract with teachers what constitutes "regular" and "additional" duties.

Court Upholds Lewis Ruling

LOGAN, Ohio (AP) — The conviction of Libby Lewis on charges of conspiracy to defraud the Hocking Valley Community Hospital here has been upheld by the 4th District Court of Appeals.

Mrs. Lewis was convicted in June, 1968. Her husband, Sterling, the former laboratory chief of the hospital, has been found guilty of conspiracy to defraud the institution.

Mrs. Lewis had been ordered to repay the hospital $6,696 and she was placed on probation. Her husband has not been sentenced.

Judge Earl D. Parker of Pike County in announcing the husband's conviction, said the appeals court found that the hospital was a political subdivision within the meaning of the conspiracy statute. Defense attorneys urged it was not.

Defense attorney James Stillwell said an appeal of both cases is still under consideration and that Mrs. Lewis' case may be appealed to the Ohio Supreme Court.

TV Proves A Useful Space Tool

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Astronauts may mount a television camera on the moon to provide live coverage of their blastoff back to earth this summer.

Spacecraft-to-earth telecasts in living color are also under study as Space Agency planners consider how TV should be put to work on future Apollo flights.

"There is a strong feeling to try to use TV in a real communications role—as an adjunct to voice," said Paul Haney, public affairs chief at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Manned Spacecraft Center.

America's next three-man flight, Apollo 10, "will probably be the most televised flight we have," Haney said in an interview. "There are indications the crew is willing to mount the TV camera inside the cabin, turn it on and leave it on."

Apollo 10, scheduled to blast off in mid-May, is planned as an around-the-moon journey similar to the flight of Apollo 8 last Christmas.

The Apollo 10 astronauts—Air Force Col. Thomas P. Stafford and Navy Cmdrs. Eugene A. Cernan and John W. Young—may also carry an experimental camera to relay color TV. All spacecraft-to-earth telecasts in the past have been in black-and-white.

Once regarded only as a gimmick by many persons in the space program, television now is being recognized as a useful tool, Haney said.

Left on for long periods in the cabin, it would give flight controllers a better idea of how spacemen work in their normal routine.

Mounted on the surface of the moon to televise astronauts returning to earth, the camera could provide valuable engineering data.

Such a telecast would require a power supply that may not be available for the first moon-landing mission, now scheduled in mid-July in Apollo 11, but could be carried on following flights, Haney said.

Beginning with Apollo 10, two TV cameras will be carried on each flight—one in the command ship and one in the lunar ship. On Apollo 9, only one camera is aboard—in the LEM, as the lunar ferry ship is called. Weighing 7.25 pounds, the camera, similar in size to a hand drill, uses only 6.5 watts of electricity.

On the moon landing mission, planned now for Apollo 11 in July, a similar camera will be placed on a hatch on the LEM. "After the lunar module has landed on the moon," said a spokesman for Westinghouse Electric Corp., the manufacturer of the camera, "the access hatch will open, aiming the camera at the ladder the astronauts will descend and also at the point where the first American will set foot on the moon."

NEW YORK (AP) — "Music Hall," NBC's variety anthology hour has the creative problem of coming up each week with a new theme around which to wrap a show and get the most out of its guest stars.

The strain showed on Wednesday night's effort, a stag affair in which the assorted male performers spent most of the time talking and singing and working in sketches about women.

In addition to presenting Robert Goulet, almost completely disguised under a full, dark beard, there was comic Phil Silvers, plus rustic comic George Lindsey of "Mayberry," the singing Letterman and a rare treat—ballet star Edward Villella.

Goulet sang attractively but seemed uncomfortable and edgy playing straight man to Silvers and Lindsey. Villella was most effective in a solo dance number which use camera techniques and tricks—including slow motion and stop motion with great success.

The less said about the comedy sketches, perhaps, the better.

NBC and ABC, with loud trumpeting have announced their week major revisions in their Saturday morning schedules next season. Saturday morning, of course, is the TV time period given, by common consent, to the youngest members of the audience and consists largely of cartoon shows.

Both networks will add some other types of entertainment to the morning mix and will get rid of some of the kiddie shows featuring monsters and other unpleasantness. The announcement comes after network TV as a whole has been criticized for the quality of its programming for children.

With spring coming on soon, householders with a patch of ground and even apartment dwellers with a sunny window and access to an educational television station are urged to scan the schedules for a series called "Making Things Grow." "The program which like Julia Child's cooking series, originates in Boston, has that same quality of authenticity and a star of great personality. That

Demand Work For Minority

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Public Works Director Alfred C. Glenow threatened Wednesday to terminate the plumbing contracts for two multi-million-dollar Ohio State University projects unless the contractor meets his agreement to hire minority group workers.

Glenow gave the contractor, Sauer, Inc. of Pittsburgh, 30 days to comply with its agreement to hire at least one minority group journeyman and one minority group apprentice on each of the two projects.

The state will terminate the contracts if the firm does not comply by April 4, said Glenow, who added that this is the first time the contract termination procedure has been invoked.

Sauer has a $922,000 contract for the Medical Basic Sciences Building and a $477,000 contract for the Jones Graduate tower.

A company spokesman at the firm's branch office here declined to comment on the state action.

FLAG PRESENTATION — Members of American Legion Auxiliary, Hall-Adkins Post 134 present a U. S. Flag, which will be flown over the Memorial at city hall, in ceremonies Wednesday morning. Present for the dedication were, from the left, Lucile Pickel, unit president of the auxiliary, who read the dedication; Kathleen Hoffman, Americanism chairman, presenting the flag; Donna Hall, community service chairman; Patrolman Jack Mills of the city police department, who accepted the flag for the city; and Eleanor Moss, publicity chairman of the auxiliary. The flag presentation by American Legion Auxiliary coincided with Mayor Richard L. Gerhardt's proclamation naming the month of March, 1969, as American Legion Fiftieth Anniversary Month.

Daley Says Humphrey Bad Choice; Wanted Kennedy

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago's Mayor Richard J. Daley says Hubert H. Humphrey was a poor candidate for president and that Robert Kennedy would have been a better one.

Daley denied at a news conference Wednesday, however, that his Democratic organization was in any way responsible for Humphrey's defeat by Richard M. Nixon.

He said one reason the Democratic candidate couldn't do better was his failure to campaign extensively in Illinois, whose electoral votes were won by the Republican nominee.

In Louisville, Ky., Humphrey commented:

"I've been in politics a long time and one of the things I've learned is that there are more fight promoters than peacemakers. I don't intend to take the bait," Humphrey added.

"We did our best. I'm sure the mayor did his best. It doesn't do us any good to re-live those days now."

Daley told the news conference:

"I thought we should have had a stronger candidate. His name is the same as a former president of the United States."

During the Democratic national convention last August in Chicago Daley was rumored to be a prime behind the scenes mover in the abortive drive to make Sen. Kennedy of Massachusetts the party's nominee. Daley said that as election day drew near, Humphrey's advisers were in a state of confusion.

Ohio's Unskilled Costing More Than Schooling?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's unskilled young people "are costing more on welfare rolls than they would cost in job training and education programs," Gov. James A. Rhodes told Ohio businessmen Wednesday night.

In a banquet address at the fifth biennial legislative conference of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce Rhodes said there are 150,000 jobs available in the state without technically trained people to fill them.

He said untrained young people "want jobs and the opportunity to progress in their jobs. This is what vocational and technical education would give them."

The two-day conference is designed to inform business leaders of political situations in Ohio and Washington.

Professors Adopt Complaint Resolution

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The University of Toledo chapter of the American Association of University Professors had adopted a resolution alleging violations of late notice in contract terminations and academic freedom at Lorain County Community College in Elyria.

The chapter said its action follows censure by the national association for the school's failure to reappoint two Lorain College faculty members.

"We didn't know who to talk to on Humphrey's staff, it was changing so fast," Daley said.

Humphrey last week criticized Chicago's treatment of demonstrators during the convention. Daley's blast came during questioning following a routine news conference to announce the planned construction of Chicago's West Side of a new national headquarters complex for Sears, Roebuck and Co.

At one point, turning to a television newsman, Daley blazed: "The American public was defrauded by television coverage of the convention. You and your stations set up what happened at Michigan and Balbo, and everybody knows that."

A major convention-week confrontation between demonstrators and police occurred at Michigan Avenue and Balbo Drive near the Conrad Hilton Hotel, convention headquarters.

Daley said, "I'm not talking about the news media; I'm talking about television."

Medical Student - Author Gets Rich

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — In 1965, when Michael Crichton was about to enter medical school, he decided he had to do something about "keeping the refrigerator full."

He chose fiction writing, a pastime he had dabbled in with modest success since he was 13. Now Crichton is about to be graduated from Harvard Medical School and he's abandoning medicine for a literary career.

He is married, his refrigerator is full and his latest book, his sixth published since 1965, is a joint Book of the Month Club selection for June. It has been purchased by Universal Pictures for $250,000.

"It's hard to believe," Crichton said in an interview, overwhelming a swivel chair with his 6-foot-9 frame and resting his feet on a cabinet that seemed half way across the room. "Sure the money is going to make a difference. It's going to swell my head."

"We don't talk about it," says his wife, Joan. "It's a terrifying thing."

The book that has brought the 26-year-old Crichton the sudden wealth is "Andromeda Strain," a science fiction novel about an unmanned earth satellite that carries lethal microbodies back from space.

Crichton said he got the idea while thumbing through National Aeronautics and Space Administration literature on contamination at the medical library where he was supposed to be reading medical texts.

"My editor and I agreed it was a nice little book, but it wasn't going to do very much," Crichton said. "As far as I'm concerned, it's a fluke."

Before "Andromeda," Crichton had written four paperback mysteries under the pseudonym of John Lange and a hard cover mystery called "A Case of Need," under the name of Jeffrey Hudson.

Why the various names? "It's amusing," says Crichton, a summa cum laude anthropology graduate of Harvard. "Besides, I thought the medical school would look with considerable disfavor upon my efforts."

"Andromeda Strain" is being published by Knopf under Crichton's real name.

He said he wrote "like a fiend" in summer, sometimes 14 hours a day, and "it's easy to see where I knocked off to write during the school year, if you took a look at my grades."

Of his medical education, Crichton said, "It was a very useful four years and, retrospectively I don't regret having gone. A great deal of what I've done has utilized my medical experience, which is an unusual experience."

He has written a prospectus for a television work on space medicine and is working on a screenplay. Two more mysteries have been sold and he is wrapping up a nonfiction book on Massachusetts General Hospital.

May Rescind Tax Break

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Rhodes administration will ask the 108th General Assembly to rescind a tax break given Ohio merchants during the last session, it was learned Wednesday.

Sources close to Gov. James A. Rhodes said the graduated devaluation of property approved two years ago could cost the state as much as $33,400,000 annually in revenue by 1973.

"That is if one assumes no growth in yield," the source said. "Schools are now beginning to feel the pinch and they will feel it more so within a few years."

Merchants who would be hardest hit by the tax restoration are the ones who have been fighting the proposed vendor's tax advocated by Rhodes.

"This may make them want to modify their position to some extent," a government official said.

At the start of all this, Crichton says, his goals were very modest. "I just wanted to make a little bread, trot through med school and keep my nose clean."

For those who have not reserved their license tags number let this be a reminder that deputy registrar, Pat (Mrs. Robert) Metzger will be in her office 9 a.m. until 8 p.m. weekdays and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday (No Sunday hours) to take your application until deadline date March 11.

It Can Be Told

Now we know why John Steinhauser was taking pictures of Williamsport school — the alumni will soon have for sale a 9-inch china plate with a full color picture of the school. A limited supply is available so get your order placed with any of the officers who are: John Steinhauser, president; Verna Lawson, first vice president; Bruce Willis, second vice president (and since he teaches away from here call his mom, Cora Willis); Wanda Hooks, secretary; Norma Anderson, treasurer. How about considering one of these plates as a gift to a graduate who attended the school during elementary days? We may as well face facts — the school has served well and honorably but it has had its day — "old schools never die, they just fade away."

The alumni banquet will be held May 17 and the catering will be done by Noel's. The meal will consist of a broasted chicken, baked potato, your choice of cole slaw or tossed salad, coffee or iced tea, hot rolls and dessert (seasonal pie).

There will be a very interesting program afterwards and possibly a prize or two awarded and all this for only $2.00 per person. The officers would be most appreciative to be alerted to any change of address (or change of name) of an alumni member — just give the secretary a call or drop a note or any of the officers for that matter. A wrong address can result in much money wasted on postage and the alumni coffers are not all that flush. The place to be held will be announced in a week or so since at this writing it had not been confirmed.

March 17, 8 p.m., Sorosis will meet at the home of Mrs. Ellwyn (Grace Ann) Hulse. Program, "Irish Laughter", — leaders Mrs. Harvey (Margene) Looney and Mrs. David (Nancy) Snyder. Refreshments: Mrs. Ted (Nell Jean) Corcoran, Mrs. Van Meter (Bernice) Hulse, Mrs. Carl (Ruth) Long, Mrs. Gene (Kate) Schleich, Mrs. Charles (Juanita) Lawson.

March 20, 7:30 p.m. Methodist Church Annex — all interested persons — Kindergarten for 1969-1970. It is vital you attend!

Evangelistic (or revival) services will be held March 9 thru March 16 at Mt. Pleasant United Methodist Church located on Route 138 close to Kinderhook. Services conducted by Rev. Herb McComas of Russell, Ky., will begin each evening at 7:30 p.m. Rev. Foster Jenne is the home pastor. While talking with Mrs. Roy (Amy) Rittinger she told me the present church is 110 years old and that a church has been at this location since 1838. (The original burned.) Amy, by the way, is the one who has the homemade mince meat and let me tell you it is really good.

Surprise Visit

A knock at the front door Friday evening rather startled A. J. and Juanita Cook since they weren't expecting anyone but how pleased and happy they were to welcome Juanita's daughter, Sally Whitt, her husband Lowell and two daughters, Brenda and Barbara of Amherst (near Cleveland). They remained overnight and on Saturday visited a while with grandparents Harry and Ruth Keller before driving on down to Piketon for another overnighter with Lowell's parents, Marvin and Nettie Whitt. Also overjoyed at their visit was Juanita's younger daughter, cute little Shana Willis who is still at home.

Haven't heard how the Senior M.Y.F. work day went Saturday since I've more or less been confined to the house with a terrific cold but I do know the two boys, (Clark Hunsicker III and Steve Seaburn) who came here and cleaned the aluminum porch awning did a great job.

The Junior M.Y.F. served lunch at the Bob Francis Auction at the Pavilion and according to my Becki they did a rushing business.

As treasurer she hasn't all the details yet since she left before it was over — after all there was that all important Westfall-Logan Elm game to attend. Which, by the by, I might toss in here that Pat Metzger said her office hours hold firm only if Westfall doesn't play so check the Herald sports section first.

Happy Birthday

Two of our favorite people — Pete Cochenour and Grandma B (Agnes Brayshaw) have not been functioning at their usual level. Pete has, by grit and gumption, stayed on the job but dear Grandma B. has had to stay in bed. Happy health to them soon.

card of cheer. Her daughter, Mrs. Mary Alice Greenwood tells me her mother was somewhat better, Monday, but will be hospitalized several days.

Mrs. Alonzo (Rachel) Buzzard was the weekend guest of her niece and family William and Karen McAdams, Lisa and Mark Alan of Chillicothe. Karen's parents, Verlin and Ollie Mae Blankenship (Ollie is Rachel's sister) were to return this week after a month's vacation in Florida. While visiting, the McAdams family took Aunt Rachel to visit her brother, Foremon Skinner and family who reside on the Huntington Pike.

Little Joy Drummond went to Adelphi last Friday and will stay until this Thursday with grandparents Doyen and Kathleen Bode. Her sisters, Connie and Sandee are with grandparents Lloyd and Margie Drummond near Clarksburg so they can continue attending classes at Williamsport while their parents David and Marabel are on a company trip. This writer will meet their plane, due in Wednesday afternoon to bring them from Columbus to home sweet home.

More "low down" on their trip next article.

My up the street neighbor, Mrs. Phoebe Smiley has returned to her home here after spending the winter with her daughter Ruth (Mrs. Chas. Shippe) of Macon, Georgia. Her only son Ray and his wife of Dayton visited their son in Florida — stopped off in Macon and Mrs. Smiley joined them for the trip home. She spent a week in Dayton before opening the home here.

The five Easterdays were in Columbus Sunday afternoon to visit Uncle Edwin and Aunt Sylvia Easterday. At one point we stopped at an ice cream shop that boasted 33 flavors. Will someone tell me why after looking over all the exotic flavors the choices invariably is vanilla, chocolate, orange sherbet?

This community was stunned and saddened by the accidental death of Mrs. Harold Cain, Saturday morning. We extend to the grieving family our deep sympathy.

After long weeks of concern and worry my neighbor Mrs. Chas. (Una) Higman has heard from son Gary in Vietnam. His address is: B.M. 2 Gary E. Higman U.S.S. Vernon County (LST-1161) F.P.O. San Francisco, California 96601.

This is the last week of this six weeks grading period. A busy time for teachers and students. And speaking of students — are they all as hungry as mine when they come home from school? One snack I often have prepared is Little Pizza.

The ingredients are: 1 pkg. shredded sharp cheese, 1 pkg. mozzarella cheese (shredded), 2 tablespoons oregano, pinch of garlic salt, 1 small onion finely chopped, 1 small jar pimento chopped.

Combine all ingredients in bowl. Add enough mayonnaise or salad dressing to be of spreading consistency. Spread on thinly sliced party rye bread. Broil until bubbly.

These are really great anytime — I have even used it as part of the refreshments at card parties. The recipe was given to me a long time ago by my good friend Freda (Mrs. Robert) MacFadden of Circleville.

We often exchange recipes. By the way, for months and months I have been trying to locate the Pillsbury Bake-Off eleventh edition but so far to no avail — any help will surely be appreciated.

Mr. William Miner is a patient at Monterey Nursing Home, Room S16 at Grove City. He was recently discharged from Berger Hospital.

Defense Wins For Westfall, 54-50

Mustangs Face Licking Valley In Final Event

Westfall edged River Valley, 54-50, Wednesday at the Ohio State Fairgrounds Coliseum in Columbus to earn a shot at the Central District Class A high school tournament finals.

The Mustangs will play Licking Valley, a 78-69 winner over Big Walnut last night at 8:30 p.m. Friday. Heath and Granville clash at 7 p.m. Friday.

In other games at the Coliseum Amanda was beaten by tall Granville, 83-69, and Heath downed Ridgedale, 75-61.

A record crowd of 8,810 was on hand to watch the Class A action, and few left until after the last game had started.

THE Westfall - River Valley game was by far the most exciting of the night.

Westfall held a 19-12 first quarter bulge, but saw the losers pull within one, 31-30, at halftime.

With just a minute to play in the third quarter, Larry Reiff put River Valley ahead, 40-39, for the first time in the game.

At the end of the period, the losers led, 41-39.

Bill Blair deadlocked the score at 41-41, just after the final period started. Then Gene Carfrey pulled the Mustangs ahead, with a two-pointer.

The score was deadlocked at 43-43 again before the Mustangs went on a five point scoring burst.

GREG Bigam tallied a foul shot, Carfrey scored two from the field and Bigam and Lightle both tossed in charity tosses and the score was 48-43.

Lightle's charity toss should have had a bonus shot. When he was fouled, the official scorer signaled the bonus was in effect.

River Valley called time out before the shot was taken. The referees apparently forgot about the bonus toss, and right after Lightle canned the bucket, River Valley took the ball out of bounds.

Westfall High School has 1,000 tickets for the central district class A high school basketball finals Friday. The tickets will be on sale at the high school until 4 p.m. Friday. Westfall plays Licking Valley at 8:30 p.m. in the second game of the doubleheader.

The scorers thought the referees would catch the infraction. But they didn't. By the time they got the action stopped, River Valley had advanced the ball past the 10 second line. The officials ruled that since the ball had been put back in play, Lightle couldn't take his second shot.

As it turned out, the "missed" shot had no effect on the winner.

RIVER Valley took its last lead with 1:09 on the clock, 50-49, on a pair of foul shots by Craig Price.

Greg Bigam took the ball and dribbled the length of the floor making a two point shot with 55 seconds to play.

The River Valley squad brought the ball back down, and lofted a shot toward the bucket. Tony Lightle went high in the air to block the shot and Bigam grabbed the rebound. Bigam was fouled with 22 seconds to play and canned both ends of the one and one to put the game on ice for Westfall.

Reiff got off a shot at the River Valley bucket with 14 seconds to play and Lightle grabbed the rebound and was fouled immediately. His charity toss was the last point of the game.

Bigam had an outstanding scoring night for Westfall, making eight of 14 shots from the field and going five for five at the charity stripe for 21.

Gene Carfrey made eight of 12 shots from the field and his only chance at the foul line for 17 points.

BILL Blair scored nine points, Lightle six and Bob Barnes one. Lightle and Bigam had 13 rebounds each and Barnes had eight.

Defense won the game for the Mustangs. Playing their familiar sticky man to man, they limited River Valley to three buckets in 14 shots during the last period.

Larry Reiff, River Valley's leading scorer with 16 points, shot eight times and made just one in the fourth quarter.

Lightle and Bigam both had five rebounds apiece in the fourth quarter.

2-Year-Old Event Added At Scioto

The Mid-American Racing Association will add a 2-year-old division to the very successful Scarlet and Gray Cup Series, staged annually at Scioto Downs.

The new four-event early closing series, named to honor all athletes, past, present and future at Ohio State University, will begin July 24 with the $4,000 added 2-year-old Trot. The $4,000 added 2-year-old Pace is scheduled for July 31.

The $5,000 added 3-year-old trotting division will take place on Aug. 14 with the $5,000 added 3-year-old pacing division set for Aug. 21.

In announcing the addition of the 2-year-old division to the present series, MARA's General Manager, Bob Steele stated, "We are adding the 2-year-old division to the Scarlet and Gray Cup Series in answer to the many requests of the horsemen."

More than 20,000 Scarlet and Gray applications are in the mail to horsemen in Ohio and a ten state area, with the closing date for nominations set for March 15.

Bobby Hull On Rampage

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Bobby Hull is on a tear and he's liable to rip up a couple of National Hockey League records before he's through.

Chicago's blond bomber cracked the coveted 50-goal plateau for the fourth time in his 12-year career Wednesday night, scoring twice in the Black Hawks' 4-4 tie with the New York Rangers.

His 50 goals this season gave him 464 for his career and third place on the all-time list, two ahead of Montreal's Jean Beliveau. Only Maurice Richard of Montreal, who scored 544 in 18 seasons, and Detroit's Gordie Howe, who has 726 in 23 seasons, have more career goals than Hull.

Hull has 10 games remaining to crack his single season record of 54 established in 1965-66. He has scored in nine consecutive games, one shy of the modern record set by Andy Bathgate of New York in 1962-63.

Elsewhere Wednesday, Boston's Phil Esposito, the NHL's first 100-point scorer, broke the NHL assist record with his 62nd and 63rd of the season, helping the Bruins to a 2-2 tie with Detroit. Toronto downed Los Angeles 6-4, Pittsburgh dropped St. Louis 4-2, and Minnesota tagged Oakland 5-2.

Brigham Young, Murray State In Tournament

By HERSCHEL NISSENON Associated Press Sports Writer Brigham Young and Murray State won their way into the NCAA Basketball Tournament

Detroit Pistons Defeat Knicks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS When New York and Detroit made their big National Basketball Association trade last December, two was one too many. Howard Komives had his best night as a Piston with 30 points and seven assists in Detroit 128-120 victory over the Knicks. Walt Bellamy, who joined him on the New York-to-Detroit trip, added 21 points and grabbed 15 rebounds, offsetting the 26 points and 21 rebounds for Dave DeBusschere, who traveled the opposite route.

Elsewhere, Chicago moved into the fourth and last playoff spot winning the Western Division by three points over San Diego with a 124-108 rout of Milwaukee and San Francisco defeated Baltimore 114-107.

with strong second halves Wednesday night but BYU's Kari Liimo supplied the best Finnish of all.

Liimo, a 6-foot-7 forward from Finland, poured in 21 of his 27 points after intermission and powered the surprising Cougars to a 95-82 Western Athletic Conference playoff victory over Wyoming and an NCAA berth.

In another conference playoff, Murray State broke open its game with Morehead State in the first eight minutes of the second half and rolled to a 94-76 triumph and the Ohio Valley championship.

Both team play their NAAP openers Saturday—Brigham Young against New Mexico State and Murray State against Marquette.

The NCAA now has 21 of its 25 teams, with titles still to be decided in the Atlantic Coast, Big Eight, Missouri Valley and West Coast Athletic Conferences.

In Wednesday's only other major games, St. Bonaventure nipped Creighton 74-72, Mississippi State got by Alabama 67-60 and the Air Force turned back Regis 88-77.

Brigham Young, down 44-37 at the half, swamped Wyoming 58-39 in the final 20 minutes and reversed a 1967 playoff loss to the Cowboys.

Carl Ashley, who finished with 34 points, shot the Cowboys ahead in the first half. But BYU tied the score at 57 with 12:18 left and took the lead for good 20 seconds later. Doug Howard contributed 23 points for the winners and held Wyoming's high-scoring Harry Hall to 18.

"I was very pleased with our over-all second-half performance, especially Liimo's," said BYU coach Stan Watts. "I was impressed with the way our bench helped out, and that included Scott Warner (11 points), Bob Davis (5) and Jim Miller (5)."

Wyoming's Bill Strannigan was "disgusted" with his team's second half. "They took away our motion and jammed up the middle effectively," he moaned. "I think Brigham Young will fare well against New Mexico State in the NCAA regionals." Murray led Morehead 44-38 at halftime and the Thoroughbreds raced to a 62-49 spread behind Hector Blondett and Jim Young. Claude Virden was high point man with 27. Blondett had 16 and Young 15.

Plucky St. Bonaventure held onto beat Creighton after 6-11 Bob Lanier, averaging 28 points a game, was ejected in the first half for throwing an elbow after scoring only three.

In the final minute, Billy Kalbaugh stole the ball and scored to give the Bonnies a 73-72 lead and Mike Kull canned a free throw with seconds left. Jimmy Satalin took up the Lanier slack with 22 points while Bob Portman and Wally Anderzunas had 29 apiece for the Blue Jays. It was the final game for Creighton Coach Red McManus, who has resigned after 10 seasons with a 138-118 record.

Phil Bengtson Packer Manager

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Phil Bengtson won't be moving into the Throne Room in Green Bay for a couple of days yet, but workmen are preparing a sign with his name on it to go where it now reads, Mr. Lombardi.

Bengtson was named Wednesday as Green Bay's general manager, adding those duties to his present job as head coach.

Ten years ago those same jobs were handed Vince Lombardi and he built the Packers into the power of the National Football League. Lombardi moved to Washington last month as head coach, executive vice president and part owner of the Redskins.

Claim Athletes Paid For Wearing Shoes

NEW YORK (AP) — Track and field competition at last October's Olympics seems to have included a new event—selling shoes—and the athletes found it much more profitable than running the mile, throwing the shot or dashing the 440.

The unofficial event apparently was entered by several German shoe manufacturers, who allegedly paid athletes from all countries to wear their shoes for advertising purposes.

Split end Johnny Gregory of Aiken, S.C., will captain South Carolina's football team next season. Fullback-halfback Benny Galloway of Easley, S.C., will be the alternate captain.

Colonels Blast Nets, 128-103

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The New York Nets kept dropping down, down, down in the American Basketball Association.

They lost their ninth straight Wednesday night, absorbing a 128-103 drubbing from the Kentucky Colonels. The defeat came a few hours after Max Zaslofsky resigned as the Nets' coach and general manager, effective at the end of the season.

Louie Danpeir, with 34, and Darel Darrier, with 21, combined for 55 points as the Colonels won their fifth straight and climbed within one game of first-place Miami in the Eastern Division. Walt Simon got 26 for the Nets.

Oakland, the Western Division leader, defeated Houston 140-134 and Indiana trimmed Dallas 131-96 in a doubleheader at Indianapolis. The Los Angeles Stars downed Minnesota 123-118 in the other game scheduled.

Gary Bradts paced Oakland over Houston with 32 points.

Golf's touring professionals made 20 holes-in-one during 1968.

Senators Open Exhibition Without Frank Howard

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

With Ted Williams managing and Frank Howard hitting, the Washington Senators should pack the parks this season, but Williams will have to carry the load alone today when the Senators open their exhibition season.

Howard, the giant home run hitter whose presence Williams certainly would trade for half the people in the stands, is still holding out for more money.

Still Williams' managerial debut is expected to attract a full house of curious fans at tiny Municipal Stadium in Pompano Beach against the New York Yankees.

Williams also will be without his other power hitter, Ken McMullen, but at least McMullen is where he can be seen after ending his holdout Wednesday by signing an estimated $30,000 contract. However, he has missed the first 10 days of practice and will not play.

Howard, who led the American League with 44 home runs last season, was back home in Green Bay, Wis., talking about quitting unless he gets the three-year, $100,000 per year contract he has been demanding.

Williams and the Senators were not the only ones without top players as the exhibition games begin.

Minnesota still was without Dean Chance, Jim Kaat, Cesar Tovar, Leo Cardenas and John Roseboro; Willie Horton was missing from the Detroit camp; Cleveland still had trouble with Sonny Siebert, and Cincinnati still had Pete Rose and Jack Fisher unsigned.

Atlanta had yet to sign Joe Torre and Los Angeles missing Don Drysdale, Claude Osteen, Ron Fairly and Paul Ponovich. The Twins, although they did give Ted Uhlaender a $10,000 raise to $25,000, the largest increase among the Twins, they had other problems. Infielder

Renick was being groomed for third base, but will be out indefinitely.

Tom Phoebus of Baltimore also signed along with Rich Rollins and Darrell Brandon of Seattle and Ken Boyer of Los Angeles.

On the field Wednesday, Roberto Clemente shrugged off his sore shoulder of last season and slammed a home run in Pittsburgh's intrasquad game, and Ken Harrelson homered and singled in a Boston intramural affair.

Curt Motton and Bob Floyd slammed two-run triples at the Baltimore camp and Ron Swoboda drove in two runs for the New York Nets.

Among the pitchers, Bob Miller of Minnesota, Don Shaw of Montreal and Denny Lemaster of Houston each pitched two perfect innings and Jim Palmer of Baltimore hurled three scoreless innings.

But the best performance came from Dick Radatz, known as the Monster when he starred as a relief pitcher for Boston, who retired all 12 men he faced in Detroit's intrasquad contest.

Pioneers Move To Finals Of Chillicothe Sectional

Zane Trace piled up a 16 point first half lead and then held on to defeat Federal Hocking, 64-50, Wednesday in the Chillicothe Sectional Class A Basketball tournament.

Chip Mixwell and Jeff Reisinger teamed up to pace the unbeaten Pioneers to their 24th consecutive win. Both scored 21 points. Reisinger notched seven of 16 field goal attempts and converted seven of nine foul shot attempts.

Maxwell made eight of 17 shots from the field and five of six at the foul line. Both

All-Ohio Conference Cage Team Headed By John Rinka

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Little John Rinka of Kenyon College, one of the nation's best shotmakers, heads up the All-Ohio Conference basketball team named today by the league's 14 coaches.

Rinka, a 5-foot-9 junior and 6 - 6 Chuck Claggett, a junior from Denison, are the only repeaters from last season's squad.

Rinka, who paced the conference in scoring for the second straight year, was named captain of the all-league team for the second time by receiving a 34.8 average.

Filling out the first team are Ted Johnson, 6-5 senior from Baldwin-Wallace; Lorenzo Hunt, 6-3 junior from Otterbein and Tom Dinger, 5 - 11 sophomore

Arnie Palmer Out With Hurting Hip

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Arnold Palmer, veteran pro golfer suffering from bursitis in his right hip, thinks his doctors have finally pinpointed the problem.

Palmer disclosed the ailment Wednesday on the eve of the $115,000 Citrus Golf Tournament which started here today.

"I'm as sorry as everyone else that I won't be able to play here," said Arnie, who has won a million dollars playing golf.

"But in fairness to myself and to my golf game, I think I must give myself an opportunity to cure this condition."

Arnie's doctors have prescribed two weeks of rest and X-ray treatments. They say a tendon rubbing on a nerve is causing the irritation.

Ashland Finishes First In Cage Poll

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP) — Bill Musselman, Ashland College basketball coach, believes in setting goals—like being the top small college team in the nation, winning the national championship and being the best defensive team in the nation.

Today, his Eagles have reached two of those goals and will be working on the third this weekend when they play host to the NCAA Midwest regional tournament—a step toward the national title which will be decided at Evansville, Ind.

The Eagles were named the best small college team in the nation Wednesday by The Associated Press, based on votes of a national panel of 18 sports writers and broadcasters.

Ashland received eight first-place votes and a total of 367 points. Runner-up Fairmont, W.Va., had one first and 262 points.

Trailing the top two in this order were: Alcorn A&M, Howard Payne, Trinity, Tex., Kentucky Wesleyan, Stephen F. Austin, Southwestern, La., Lamar Tech and Gannon, Pa.

"If you don't set goals, you can't accomplish anything," says the 28-year-old Musselman, who goes around the country recruiting players by informing them that Ashland is going to win a national title. He set his goals at the beginning of the year, even though he had only one starter back from the 1967-68 season.

The thing about Musselman's goals is that people start believing in them—especially basketball players.

His first year as varsity coach in 1965-66, Ashland broke even—10 wins and 10 losses.

"The next year we posted a sign in the locker room saying we were going to be the best defensive team in the nation," says Musselman. After four games, the boys began to believe they could do it."

Ashland wound up with a 21-3 record that year and the next season set a national record for defense, allowing an average of 38.8 points per game, and posted a 24-6 record.

Musselman was greeted with some scepticism when he said he could better that mark. The Eagles dropped the record to 31 points per game this year in winning 23 and losing two.

"Some people have been critical of our disciplined and defensive style of play," said the coach, "but I guess we've proved this year that that might be the best way to play winning basketball."

The final Top 20 with first place votes, season records through Sat. March 1 and total points for the first 15 picks on a basis of 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8-7-etc.:

Grand Opening Begins At Palm's New Salvage Store

Another page of a local success story will be completed with the grand opening of Bus Palm's new grocery salvage store Thursday.

Palm began his business in 1939, when he was only 16-years old.

"It was near the end of the depression," recalled Palm. "I borrowed $250 from my mother and started the first store where Palm's Carryout is today. The store was only about 12-feet wide and not much longer than that at the time," he continued.

Palm's operations stopped long enough for him to serve in the merchant marine during the war. Then he returned to Circleville and began his business again.

Today that business has grown to include two delicatessens, the salvage grocery store, a warehouse and a small fleet of trucks that ships items in from over a four-state area.

The new store on E. Main St. will serve both as a store and as headquarters for the other local business enterprises, Palm said.

The store, which covers about 1320 square feet, was planned about a year ago. In it are facilities for remarking and labeling goods and packing them for the shelves.

We buy unmarked goods from major producers and then put our own labels on them, stated Palm.

Other products come from damaged cases which are not accepted by the chain stores.

A case may be damaged in shipping and the larger stores will refuse to accept it even though only a few of the cans or boxes in it have been ruined; we then buy those cases, Palm explained.

The products we sell are never old. They have been injured in transportation and we buy them right at the warehouse. This means that many of the products we put on our shelves are fresher than comparable ones at the larger grocery stores, he stated.

Savings to the shopper amounts to about $5-$8 per week or about $300 a year, he continued.

The only problem that sometimes develops is the absence of a product because it is not available in salvage lots at the time.

HEADING OPERATIONS — Bus Palm has been in business in Circleville since he was 16-years old. He began his business on a $250 loan at the end of the depression.

Snow, Rain Cover Much Of Mid-U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow and rain chilled a large part of the midcontinent and the Pacific Northwest today.

Winds of gale force accompanied rain which pelted the Northeast coast. Snow whitened upland areas and ranged inland as far as Montana.

Travelers warnings were in effect for sections of Kansas and Missouri as a pair of storm systems scattered snow or rain from the upper Great Lakes into Texas.

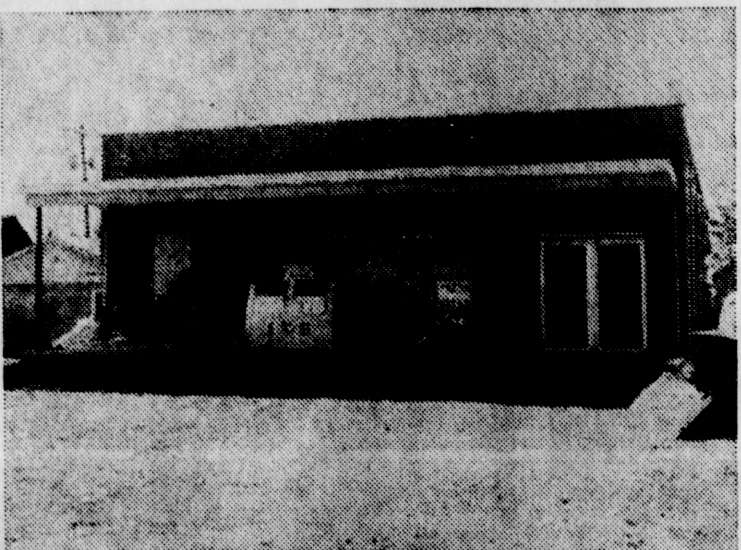

Snow generally was light, but sleet created an added hazard in Kansas-Missouri areas between the belts of snow and rain. Showers spilled eastward along the Gulf Coast from Texas to Alabama.

Clear skies were confined to the Southwest, and fringes of the Northeast.

Zero cold numbed northern New England. The mercury settled to 10 below at Lebanon, N.H., before daybreak.

Toledo Man Killed

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — John E. Marshall, 69, perished early today when a fire destroyed a mobile home at a Toledo trailer park where he lived.

NEW STORE — The new Palm's Salvage Store was planned about one year ago. The 1320 square foot store also serves as the headquarters for Palm's other wholesale and retailing operations.

Nab Ruth Eisemann-Schier On Charge Of Kidnaping

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Honduras-born Ruth Eisemann-Schier, the only woman ever to appear on the FBI's list of 10 most-wanted criminals, faces arraignment today on a charge of taking part in a Georgia kidnaping in which a college coed was buried alive.

Petite, 26-year-old Miss Schier was arrested Wednesday in nearby Norman as she worked as a car hop at a drive-in restaurant.

In Oklahoma City, U.S. Commissioner James Bullitt set bail at $500,000 and continued the proceedings until 1:30 p.m. today after Miss Schier asked for a court-appointed attorney.

Miss Schier and Steven Krist, 23, are charged with the abduction of Barbara Jane Mackle from a Decatur, Ga., motel last Dec. 17.

Krist was captured last Dec. 22 after a widespread manhunt near Punta Gorda, Fla.

Miss Mackle, 20-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Mackle, was found buried unharmed in a box about 20 miles northeast of Atlanta after an 86-hour underground ordeal.

The kidnapers had directed rescuers to the spot after Mackle, a wealthy Florida real estate developer, paid $500,000 ransom. Practically all of the ransom money was recovered.

Dist. Atty. Richard Bell of DeKalb County, Ga., said he would institute proceedings to have Miss Schier brought to trial as soon as possible.

Miss Schier, known in Norman as Donna Willis, was arrested after she applied for a job as a nurse at Central State Hospital in Norman. A worker

Study Illness Of Astronauts

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Russell L. Schweickart is the fourth man to get sick to his stomach in space. And no one yet knows why. Air Force Col. Frank Borman got an upset stomach and vomited on the way to the moon in Apollo 8.

On Gemini 8 Col. David R. Scott and civilian Neil Armstrong suffered from nausea.

When rookie astronaut Schweickart became ill Wednesday, once in the command ship and once in the moon cab, doctors were faced by the same diagnostic puzzle. Was it motion sickness? Was it only motion sickness?

Schweickart, an experienced pilot, has had motion sickness before, not unlike other pilots. He's been both air sick and seasick. He took motion sickness pills both before and after the Apollo 9 blast-off.

Now, on doctor's orders, he's taking them again.

Schweickart's illness is the only one so far that has caused a radical change in flight plan. His spacewalk was canceled, both because he was not up to the strenuous work involved, and because there was the danger that if he should become nauseated in the closed environment of his spacesuit, he might inhale and choke on vomit.

PARIS (AP) — The United States protested strongly today against "the indiscriminate shelling of the city of Saigon" and told the North Vietnamese and the National Liberation Front "the consequences of these attacks are your responsibility."

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge did not elaborate on "the consequences of the enlarged peace talks. President Nixon warned Tuesday that shellings, such as the heavy attack today on Saigon would bring "some response that is appropriate."

Both North Vietnam and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front scorned Nixon's warning and accused him of "intensifying the war." The North Vietnamese said that "the Vietnamese people refuse to be intimidated," and the front representative claimed the "inalienable right to self-defense."

The United States claims the conditions of the decision to end all the bombing of North Vietnam Nov. 1 included an undertaking by the North Vietnamese to refrain from attacks on civilian centers. Hanoi denies there were any conditions.

The delegations met for only four hours, the shortest session since the enlarged peace talks began Jan. 23. The four delegations agreed to meet again next Thursday.

Lodge repeated his earlier proposals to begin peacemaking with military questions, emphasizing the restoration of the demilitarized buffer zone between North and South Vietnam.

Tran Buu Kiem, the "foreign minister" of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front, told the American and South Vietnamese delegations: "We reaffirm once again the sacred and inalienable right to self defense of the armed forces and population of South Vietnam."

He said the U.S. and Saigon governments were making a lot of noise about events in Saigon because they had suffered "stunning defeats."

"The present situation in South Vietnam shows clearly that no maneuvers, no tricks and no threats of the United States and their lackeys can save them from defeat," Kiem said.

"It is truly an illusion to want to achieve a position of strength on the battlefield and at the conference table when one has failed, as the United States has failed, in Vietnam."

Kiem accused Nixon of threatening to "make the Vietnamese people suffer the consequences of their struggle against aggression."

He said that as long as the United States continued its war effort, "the South Vietnamese population will continue to combat aggression in accordance with its perfect right to punish the aggressors wherever they may be and at whatever moment."

Kiem charged that President Nixon is intensifying the war "while pouring out honeyed words of peace." He said the U.S. president's threat of a response to the shellings represented "the words of an aggressor who does not wish to be punished."

As the delegations traded charges in the conference room, Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky took off for Saigon, declaring that "if the North Vietnamese continue their criminal action against the Saigon population ... I have no reason to return to Paris."
